News From Headquarters

August 15, 2019 - At EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2016, EAA CEO and Chairman of the Board Jack J. Pelton with Suchit Jain of DS SolidWorks and David Kasinskas of GSC announced that EAA members would have free access to the SOLIDWORKS Student Design Kit — EAA Maker Edition.

When asked about additional functionality, specifically the Electrical Module, Suchit Jain said that if EAA members could use the added functionality, DS SolidWorks would add it. Since that announcement, EAA has worked with DS SolidWorks to add additional benefits including free access to certification exams, discounts on 3D printers and training, and aviation-specific tutorials through the EAA SOLIDWORKS University (EAA.org/SWU).

To date, more than 8,300 EAA members have downloaded SOLIDWORKS through this program, making it the fastest-growing member benefit. In fact, it continues to grow by more than 200 member downloads per month. In the weeks leading up to EAA AirVenture Oshkosh 2019, Marie Planchard of DS SolidWorks notified EAA that its members would now have access to a version of SOLIDWORKS that had previously only been made available to engineering schools — SOLIDWORKS Education Premium.

Young Eagles Report

Project Updates

It was a slow month for the young eagles this month. We had six kids sign up but only two showed up to go and fly.

No Report this month.

Hopefully we will have more.

Please send interested kids and parents to our registration web site.

EAA174 Volunteers at Oshkosh 2019

By David Gallagher

Oshkosh 2019 blew by this year, almost literally. The Saturday before opening day, there was a huge storm system that blew through. There were reports of 9 tornados north near Appleton and several inches of rain fell throughout the area. The airfield and campgrounds closed up to new arrivals for over a day. Fortunately, the EAA spirit and dry weather prevailed for the rest of the week and the 2019 show will go down as one of the best ever.

EAA Chapter 174 continues to have a good volunteer presence in the Warbirds of America area.

Todd Winemiller has flown his SNJ/T-6 at Oshkosh for many years now and is the Flight Lead for all T-6's flying in the daily Warbird airshows. FYI, SWORFI is September 29 at Winemiller Field.

Mark and Mary Ann Webb spent countless hours in the Warbirds volunteer food shack. The Warbirds take real good care of their volunteers through the efforts of Mark and Mary Ann

Dave Glassmeyer worked hard at being the official lawn chair weight and fire spotter in the Warbirds area.

Just kidding Dave! Actually, Dave Glassmeyer spent several long days with me providing fire and EMS first response services in the Warbirds area. The mid-week warm weather found us treating several heat exhaustion cases. We are the two jokers on the left in this photo with the beautiful and award-winning XP-59 Twin Mustang in the background.
